

Why sink the Lavest?

Who swapped the contents?

How do you get gold out of the jungle?

BOOK DETAILS

TITLE:

There's a Page Missing

AUTHOR:

Don Oliver

IMPRINT:

Scamp

GENRE:

Autobiography

EDITIONS:

Trade paperback

PAGES:

248

PHOTOGRAPHS:

7 grayscale and

36 full colour

ISBN:

978-0-9802608-1-6

RRP:

R189.00 incl. VAT

AVAILABILITY:

All good bookstores and

and

www.printmatters.co.za

Don Oliver's life's work flits him from one scam to another, criss-crossing the globe, exposing the most extraordinary people bent on fooling the system with mind-boggling schemes ... but not for long ... There's a Page Missing reads like a detective novel: fast-moving, fun and often incredible.

www.bookblurb.co.za

In Freetown, Sierra Leone, on presenting his passport at immigration, the official returned Don Oliver's passport with the remark: "There's a page missing." After a few perplexing moments, Don got the message and slipped a US$20 note into his passport whereupon it was stamped with a visa.

Not content with putting his feet up and retiring, Don is still on the maritime beat, and now telling the real stories behind his investigations into some of the world's most ingenious insurance frauds and fraudsters.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Don Oliver is an independent specialist marine surveyor based in South Africa. His clients are mainly insurers of cargo whilst in transit from one place to another and his job is to investigate claims for damage and loss. This work has taken him all over the world and he has exposed major maritime frauds. He has also dealt with numerous cases which had their own fascination due to strange quirks and circumstances. Don now lives in Cape Town with his wife, Di.

Scamp is an imprint of Publishing Print Matters (Pty) Ltd publishers of books that matter

P O Box 640
Noordhoek 7979
Western Cape
South Africa

021 789 0155
www.printmatters.co.za

scamp